BRIEF REPORT ABOUT THE EVENT/ PROGRAMME:

Asutosh College, Department of Geography, had organized a Poster Competition in collaboration with IQAC on Fourth day of May, 2023. The participants were from three regular semesters studying under-graduation viz. second semester, fourth semester and sixth semester. The students were divided into different groups of 7-9 members by the mentors selected within the department. Students were asked to choose the topic for poster from their present syllabus. The motive of this poster competition was to reach all students of different academic performance. This program was not only a healthy competition but also enabled students to expose their thoughts, art and presentation about the subject on which they are specializing/ graduating. Geography is a practical based subject covering all possible knowledge about the Earth and Human relationship. Therefore, students had chosen variety of topics for their presentation, few examples of their topics are Development verses Environment, Rural Settlement of India, Earthquake, Tribe- The First People, Human Races

Of The World, Impact of Mining on The Environment and alike. There were twenty-one posters in total done by the students of Geography Department.

To encourage the mindset of competitiveness among students' prizes were arranged by the department judged by faculties of other departments. Professor Rina Kar (Dutta) of Philosophy Department, Professor Abhik Kundu of Geology, Professor Rwiti Basu of Geology, Professor Sharama Roy Barman of Environmental Science was respected judges. They had proposed their evaluation and honorable Principal Professor Manas Kabi had distributed the prizes among the students with certificate of participation.

- EXPECTED OUTCOME: A healthy competition enabled students to expose their thoughts, art and presentation about the subject on which they are specializing/graduating.
