The faculty members have made the following observations during the visit to the Geological Survey of India:

- The Director as well the officers and staffs of the organization are very helpful and cooperative.
- They enriched our students by displaying many valuable specimens of rocks and minerals.
- Some rare specimens of corals and meteoroids were also shown to the students.

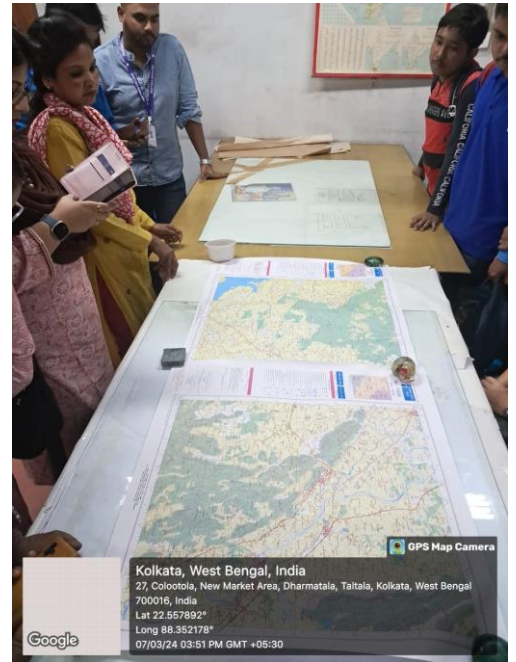

With the Officer, GSI

The faculty members have made the following observations during the visit to the Survey of India:

- All the members of the institute are cooperative and enthusiastic.
- The students have been extremely benefitted by observing various types of topographical maps of inaccessible areas which are not available anywhere.
- They also got to know some history of map making.

Observing the maps, SOI
