ACADEMIC SESSION: 2024-25

DATE: 03.04.2025

VENUE: Centenary building, Asutosh College

ORGANIZED BY: Department of Philosophy in collaboration with IQAC

OBJECTIVE: This programme was organized to create a platform for knowledge sharing and inspiration by connecting current students with accomplished alumni. The event seeks to strengthen the bond between alumni and the department, encouraging the sense of pride and belonging.

TOPIC/ THEME: “Reframing Jealousy: Breaking the Stigma around a Misunderstood Emotion

BRIEF REPORT ABOUT THE EVENT/ PROGRAMME:

Smt. Suchitra Srivastava, an ex-student of the Department of Philosophy, who is currently in the faculty position at Sreegopal Banerjee College, Bagati, Hooghly gave an excellent presentation on “Reframing Jealousy: Breaking the Stigma around a Misunderstood Emotion”. All the faculty members along with students of the department were present at the Centenary Hall and enthusiastically listened to her presentation. Her presentation was innovative and triggered many questions in the mind of the present students. Srivastava tried to answer all these questions argumentatively and also from the warmth of her feelings. No doubt, the programme was successful as it achieved the aspiration of enriching students’ intellectual horizon, motivating them through real-life experiences, and building a supportive academic community rooted in shared values and growth.
