

Message from PRESIDENT

On this World Environment Day, we're thrilled to share the latest edition of the e-magazine from the Department of Environmental Science, The Earth Talk: Changing Perspectives (ISSN 2583-4940).

This e-magazine is a reflection of our shared commitment to environmental leadership.

Through thought-provoking articles, captivating visuals, and innovative ideas, we aim to spark reflection, inspire action, and deepen our connection with our planet. Our students, the future leaders in environmental science, have played a key role in shaping this magazine. Their passion, creativity, and dedication to raising awareness about environmental issues shine through on every page.

Our faculty, with their expertise and insights, have also contributed greatly to this publication, enriching it with their profound knowledge of and experience in environmental science and its associated issues.

On this special day, I wish to congratulate the Department of Environmental Science for publishing this thought-provoking e-magazine. Together, let's renew our dedication to preserving the Earth for future generations and embrace sustainable practices, and work towards creating a greener, more sustainable world. Happy World Environment Day!

Message from PRINCIPAL

As we approach World Environment Day on June 5, 2024, I am filled with pride and optimism for our college's commitment to fostering a sustainable future. This year's theme, "Land Restoration, Desertification, and Drought Resilience," emphasizes the urgent need to rehabilitate and protect our planet's vital ecosystems.

World Environment Day is more than a celebration; it is a call for action. Each of us has a role in creating a greener, healthier world. Simple steps such as reducing waste, conserving water, and supporting renewable energy sources can collectively make a significant impact.

I deeply appreciate the initiative taken by the faculty and students of the Department of Environmental Science in publishing their latest issue of e-magazine The Earth Talk: Changing Perspectives (ISSN 2583-4940). I truly believe that the writings, photographs, and illustrations created by our talented students and faculty members will significantly raise environmental awareness. This e-magazine is a commendable step towards a greener and more sustainable future.

The commitment shown by our students and faculty in addressing critical environmental challenges through this publication is truly inspiring. It highlights our collective responsibility and the power of education in bringing change. Let us use this momentum to continue advocating for and implementing sustainable practices in our daily lives.

Thank you for your dedication to creating a better world.

Message from CHIEF EDITOR

"The Greatest Threat to Our Planet Is the Belief That Someone Else Will Save It"- Robert Swan

World Environment Day serves as a vital reminder of our collective responsibility to protect our planet. This year on this very special day The Department of Environmental Science, Asutosh College is proud to announce the release of Volume III of the e-magazine The Earth Talks: Changing Perspectives (ISSN 2583-4940). This magazine has served as a platform for sharing thoughts and opinions on various environmental issues and infusing sustainable thinking onto its readers. Further the bilingual nature of the magazine caters to a larger reader base. The magazine is a collection of interesting environment related articles, photography, paintings and poems that is bound to keep the reader engaged from cover to cover.

I would like to congratulate all the students and faculty who have worked hard for the successful running of the e-magazine. The Department of Environmental Science has always been a pioneer in spreading environmental awareness and this unique venture has been highly commendable. It gives me immense pleasure in observing the increasing interest on environment as we get articles from faculty of different departments of our college. This itself speaks for volume on the quality of the e magazine. I hope we can continue this effort in the days to come and keep our readers informed about the current environmental scenario.

My sincere thanks go to our principal for his continuous encouragement and to the advisory committee for their valuable suggestions. I am also grateful to all the college faculty members who have contributed to this magazine.
