“You cannot protect the environment unless you empower people, you inform them, and you help them understand that these resources are their own, that they must protect them.”

- Wangari Maathai

Environmental awareness amongst common people is one of the most important aspects of the 21st century. To move towards achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) set by the UN, the role of any educational institute is to spread eco-friendly concepts. The Department of Environmental Science, Asutosh Collage has been actively doing the same for more than two decades now.

From 2022, the Department has started its very own e-magazine “The Earth Talk: Changing Perspective” ISSN:2583-4940 [Online]. Today is a proud moment for the College, as the Department launches the 2nd edition of the e-magazine on the occasion of ‘World Environment Day, 2023’.

I Congratulate the department for their relentless efforts and dedication. I encourage them to keep up their remarkable activities. I hope this informative e-magazine receives huge readership and succeeds in nourishing the concept of green thinking.

I firmly believe such efforts shall make our planet a better one for the coming generations.

Message from CHIEF EDITOR

It gives me immense pleasure in announcing that the Department of Environmental Science Asutosh College, has successfully come up with the second edition of their E magazine “The Earth Talk: Changing Perspectives”. In today’s date where changing climatic conditions is posing an imminent threat on the biodiversity of the planet, this venture is a much-needed awareness campaign. Owing to the online nature of the magazine, we intend on reaching far and wide with our messages on environmental issues.

The magazine features some very interesting articles along with nature photography and awareness insightful posters. There is also a section on environmentally impactful news from local, national, and international sectors to keep our readers updated with current environmental scenario.

I congratulate the faculty members of the department who pitched in extraordinary hard work to bring this magazine a second issue. I also would like to congratulate the students of the department for their commendable job from the very inception of the magazine and the departmental staffs for their cooperation.

I am truly thankful to our Principal for his continuous encouragement and the advisory committee for their important suggestions. I am also thankful to all faculty members of the college who have contributed to this magazine.

As the Head of the Department, I am proud to present the second issue of “The Earth Talk: Changing Perspectives” with ISSN 2583-4940 and hope to bring out more such interesting issues for our readers.

PUBLICATION CELL

Heartiest Congratulations to the Department of Environmental Science! What others could merely dream of they have achieved within a short span of time – their very own online eco magazine with ISSN. A magazine for the environment by committed environmentalists - a rare feat indeed!

May the range of topics not only prove thought-provoking but also initiate necessary action and remediation by the most important segment of the academia –the students. Kudos to the staff members of Environmental Science department for taking this giant stride to publish ‘The Earth Talk: Changing Perspectives.’

May you climb from peak to peak...
