GB President's Message

It gives me immense pleasure to greet all students who have chosen Asutosh College as their institute of higher education in this new academic session of 2018-19.

As a former teacher in the department of Physics of the college and now the President of its Governing Body, my association with this august institution has been a long and enriching one. It has been my privilege to have taken part in its long journey towards achieving excellence in every respect, academic as well as co-curricular, something that has been vindicated by the Grade A status achieved through the NAAC assessment of 2016-17.

All best wishes to students, members of the teaching and non-teaching staff, and all stakeholders, for a deeply satisfying year ahead.

Principal's Message

Asutosh College, which began its journey on the 17th of July, 1916, as South Suburban College, has today consolidated its position as a premier institute of learning, catering to the ever-increasing academic needs of Kolkata and the rest of Bengal, and even beyond.

Born of the vision of Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, the doyen of modern education in India, the institution with which I continue to maintain a deep and everlasting bond, nurtures the ideal of inclusive education, by opening the doors of institutional learning to all, transcending social, economic, or physical health barriers, as it prepares to meet new challenges in a rapidly changing education scenario. Such an ideal can only be achieved by fostering an environment where knowledge is unshackled, Jñān Jethā Mukto, to quote Tagore.

To all students who today join Asutosh College in this quest towards realising that ideal, I extend my warmest wishes for an enriching experience ahead.

Vice-Principal's Message

It is that time of year when a whole new crowd of young adults with academic and professional aspirations are welcomed into the Asutosh College fold. Helping them to chart out a meaningful course towards realising these aspirations, our more than a century-old institution has on offer an array of students' support services, opportunities for co-curricular pursuits, besides the regular academic programmes of the affiliating university. I sincerely hope that all our new students will benefit from these facilities and utilise the years they will now spend in the extended campus of Asutosh College.

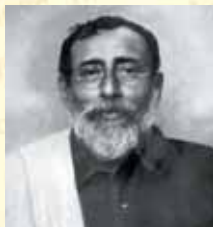

We are also in the process of making an important transition in the curricular set-up and in the University academic calendar in the form of the newly introduced Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) of study, and through the introduction of the semester division, respectively. This poses a new challenge for us which I am sure we will be able to meet.

To all who have just joined our institution and those who are today an integral part of this extended family, on behalf of the administration and all members of staff, teaching and non-teaching, I extend my warmest wishes as we continue in our quest for excellence, not merely in academics, but in all facets of life.
